OSHA Recordkeeping & Electronic Log Submission Service

Service Features & Benefits

Enrollment in the OSHA Recordkeeping & Electronic Log Submission Service will ensure that your company meets all submission requirements and deadlines to remain compliant with OSHA 1904.41 and avoid fines. Through this additional service, a RiskControl360° consultant will work with your administrative team to review the accuracy of your information, obtain recordable incident information, develop processes for maintaining compliance, submit all the necessary information and logs on time, and provide your company with a confirmation email of their compliance with OSHA 1904.41.

OSHA 1904.41: Behind the Change

“This simple change in OSHA’s rulemaking requirements will improve the safety for workers across the country. One important reason stems from our understanding of human behavior and motivation. Behavioral economics tells us that making injury information publicly available will “nudge” employers to focus on safety. And, as we have seen in many examples, more attention to safety will save the lives and limbs of many workers, and will ultimately help the employer’s bottom line as well. Finally, this regulation will improve the accuracy of this data by ensuring that workers will not fear retaliation for reporting injuries or illnesses.” - OSHA
